The Resurrection

Matt. 28:1-10—

1. In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

2. And behold, there was a great earthquake; for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door and sat upon it.

3. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow;

4. And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

5. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

6. He is not here; for He is risen as He said. Come and see the place where the Lord lay.

7. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that He is risen from the dead; and behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him: lo, I have told you.

Going Away Party for Mrs. Paige

A party of much interest was the going away party the Girl Scouts gave for their beloved leader, Mrs. Jessie B. Paige. Jessie left us the 1st of February to join her husband in Detroit. Although we were glad for them to be together again, we hated to see her go. The Girl Scout Troop has just completed 5 of its best years. We have 2 girls with curved bars and 2 more who will soon achieve this rank. This was accomplished under the able leadership of Jessie.

So, a few days before her departure, we planned a party in which all the girls and troop committee had a part and presented Jessie with a lovely piece of Samsonite luggage.

Not only are we going to miss her in Scouting but she was very active in the Brown's Chapel Church and also the staff of the Neigh. She did her work well and we will certainly miss her.

Vital Questions and Answers...

Exactly what is the tariff?

Taken altogether, it is a list of charges collected by the government on goods shipped from other lands to be sold here.

What is the tariff supposed to do?

In the words of George Washington when he was President: "It is necessary to aid the support of government and to encourage and protect industries."

How does the tariff protect textile jobs?

Without an adequate tariff, makers of textiles in England, Japan and other countries could sell their goods freely in American stores. Their prices would be so low that few people would buy what American mills make. As foreign countries took over the markets, American mills would be put out of business and thousands of textile jobs would be wiped out.

Why are foreign goods cheaper?

They are made by people whose wages are so low that they could not possibly be compared with our wages here. In addition, many foreign countries provide special benefits to their textile manufacturers.

What do foreign textile workers earn?

Compare your pay with 40 cents an hour in British mills, 13 cents an hour in Japan, 9½ cents in India's textile industry.

But American textiles are better, aren't they?

Right now they are, on the whole. Yet certain fabrics from Europe and Japan are just as good in quality as ours. Without a label you couldn't tell the difference.

But wouldn't a lower tariff make it easier on my pocketbook?

Not if it forced you out of a job or made your mill shut down. Think of how things would be in your town if the mills closed for good. Hard times are never easy on the pocketbook.

Would tariff cuts harm other Americans?

No doubt about it. The great cotton farming industry, the machinery industry that builds mill machinery, the chemical industries and scores of others, not to mention the local stores and businesses, which are kept busy when the textile mills are busy. One sure way to import hard times is to cut the tariff and cause any big industry like textiles to suffer.

Is all this worth protecting? Is your job worth protecting?

You know the answers. And as far as world trade is concerned, it would seem tragic and insane to let anything weaken America's strength. Lively world trade depends on busy American industries more than all else... just as the fighting strength of the Free Nations depends on a strong America.

What can be done?

Each and every Pacolet employee can play a very important role in this fight for preserving and protecting our jobs. If you are interested, and we cannot conceive of any Pacolet employee who would not be, you can do something definite about this.

Your Red Cross

Disaster strikes in Arkansas, and immediately the nationwide resources of the Red Cross are mobilized for aid to the victims.

A Pennsylvania serviceman in Korea needs advice and help with a problem at home and gets it from the Red Cross field director attached to his unit.

An accident victim in Georgia receives life-giving blood from a Red Cross blood center.

Every day throughout the nation and the world the Red Cross contribution you make here at home is at work — in your behalf — to relieve distress, save a life, comfort the stricken. Your dollars make Red Cross service possible wherever and whenever it is needed.

That is why the Red Cross emblem should be on your lapel — a sign that you have given — a symbol to be worn proudly. It will be your mark of personal identification with a great humanitarian cause. It means that you care enough about your neighbor — across the street or across the nation — to extend him a helping hand in his hour of need.

The Three Bones

A loyal Irishman was seeing his son off on the steamer to a new land whither the lad was bound with the intention of seeking his fortune.

"Now Michael, me boy," he said, as they started, "remember the three bones, and ye'll always git along all right."

A bystander nearby overheard the remark, and when the ship had gone, he asked the old gentleman what three bones he referred to.

"Sure, now," said the man of Erin, "and wouldn't it be the wishbone and the jawbone and the backbone? It's the wishbone that keeps you going after things, and it's the jawbone that helps you find out how to go after them if you are not too proud to ask a question when there's something you don't know, and it's the backbone keeps you at it till you get there."

Essay On Man

Men are what women marry. They are divided into three classes — husbands, bachelors, and widowers.

A bachelor is a man whose mind is filled with obstinacy and whose soul is filled with suspicion.

Husbands are of three varieties — prizes, surprises, and consolation prizes.

Making a husband out of a man is one of the higher arts known to civilization. It requires science, patience, persistence, faith, hope, and charity.

If you flatter a man, you frighten him to death; if you don't, you bore him to death. If you permit him to make love to you, he gets tired of you in the end; and if you don't, he gets tired of you in the beginning. If you believe all he tells you, he thinks you are foolish; if you don't, he thinks you are a cynic.

If you wear gay colors, rouge, and startling hats, he hesitates to take you out. If you wear a little brown turban and a tailored suit, he takes you out and stares all evening at a woman in gay colors, rouge, and a startling hat.

If you join the gaities and approve of his smoking and drinking, he says you are driving him to destruction, if you don't approve, he vows that you are snobbish.

If you are the clinging vine type, he doubts whether you have any brain; if you are a modern, advanced, intelligent woman, he doubts whether you have a heart.

If you are silly, he longs for a bright mate; and if you are intelligent and brilliant, he longs for a playmate.

Most men are like worms in the grass. They wiggle around awhile, and then some chicken grabs them.

Man wants but little here below,

He's ready to admit it;

And if Uncle Sam keeps taxing him

He's pretty sure to git it.

The Doubter

He had his doubts when he began, The task had stopped another man, And he had heard it whispered low How rough the road was he must go;

But now on him the charge was laid, And of himself he was afraid.

He wished he knew how it would end, He longed to see around the bend; He had his doubts that he had strength Enough to go so far a length. And all the time the notion grew That this was more than he could do.

Of course he failed! Who lives with doubt Soon finds his courage giving out. They only win who face a task And say the chance is all I ask; They only rise who dare the grade And of themselves are not afraid.

There are no ogres up the slope! With human beings man must cope Who fears the blow before it's struck Loses the fight for lack of pluck. And only he the goal achieves Who truly in himself believes.

Miss Poole and Miss Goforth Entertain

Sherrie Poole and Joyce Goforth entertained about twenty-five of their school chums with a weiner roast on their 12th birthdays, Mar. 17, in the back yard of Joyce's home.

Games and contests were enjoyed all through the afternoon. Roasting weiners and marshmallows, served with cokes, potato chips, and birthday cake furnished the highlight of the day. Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Goforth were co-hostesses for the occasion.

Spring Brings New Life

Now that Spring is here with so many evidences of new life: The song of the birds, the budding trees, the blooming flowers, surely we can say with the Psalmist, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge." Psalm 19:1-2.

Is it not also a time when there should be a revival of interest in Spiritual things? Now that we are thinking in terms of Easter, Mother's Day, Vacation Bible School, Special Revival Services, we are anxious to see a renewed spirit of interest on the part of all our people. Our goal should be "Every person in this community a church member and a Christian." It is terrible to think that even one soul might be lost, especially if that soul should be your own, or the soul of some dear loved one or friend. We should like so much to see better attendance upon all the services of the church.

It will be three months until the "Neigh" is published again. I hope to be able to report in the next edition that the revival fires are burning in our community, that our Church Schools, and Church Services are filled to overflowing. If you are not already attending the church of your choice, a cordial welcome awaits you at Montgomery Memorial.

Mrs. Greene is one of our lunch room workers at Pacolet Mills school and much loved by all the children attending.

News From The Girls Club

Quite a number of things have happened at the Girls Club since last we went to press.

One of the outstanding events was the chicken pie supper for the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Spartanburg of which Miss Fuller and Miss Annie L. Langford of our community are members. About 30 members were present and the supper was served buffet style. I think most of those ladies left their diet list at home on that night. It was a wonderful meeting and we enjoyed having them here with us.

Another supper of much interest was the one given the staff of workers at the Community Cash by their supervisor, Mr. L. D. Weathers. This was a delicious steak supper with all the trimmings. Visitors other than the workers in this store here, were Mr. Broadus Littlephon and men from the warehouse in Spartanburg and their wives. After the supper the group enjoyed singing and stunts.

What Is The Biggest Reason People Get Fired?

A nationwide organization of teachers recently sent a letter to several thousand employers in all of the 48 states; to factories, offices, stores, etc. The letter stated that they were teaching boys and girls who expected to go to work as soon as school was out and that they would like to know the errors to warn them about. They asked these places to check the records of the last three people who were fired from their business and check the reason listed. Below the letter they listed reasons from stealing to tardiness.

When the answer came back, this group of teachers was amazed. They had expected to read a long list of offenses. They thought that the misdeeds would not be the same and that older workers would differ from younger ones. They found nothing of the sort.

More than two-thirds of all these people had lost their jobs for the same reason in every sort of business. For all workers in all different states it was this one reason:

"They couldn't get along with people."
