Henderson Clan Holds Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Henderson were hosts for a Henderson family reunion, held at the Girls Club on April 11th.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jefferson of Pacolet; Mrs. Jefferson was the oldest sister, Annie. Also Mrs. Lila Mae Owensby, Whitmire; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson and family of Greenwood. Mrs. Johnson is the youngest of the family, the former Zelia Henderson; also Mrs. Zelia Carr and Miss Mary Carr of Clifton; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allison; Mrs. Harrison Henderson of Gaffney Route 4.

All of the children were not able to be present, but with invited guests, about fifty people gathered for a lovely buffet dinner.

BEN PAINTER WINS NEW ORLEANS TRIP

Ben Painter, representative of The Life Insurance Company of Virginia has won a trip to New Orleans in recognition of his record of sales and service during 1953.

The Convention is called the Leaders Convention of the Company, and we congratulate Ben on attaining this special honor.

It isn't enough for people to be proud of the place they live in. They have to live so the place will be proud of them. — Clarence Francis.

TEA FOR BRIDE AND BRIDE ELECT

Miss Nellene Seay was hostess on April 12th at a tea at her home honoring Miss Hazel Grant who will be married in May, and also for Miss Ila Jean Mathis, who was married recently.

Twenty three guests were present and report a lovely party.

A Parable for Mothers

A young mother set her foot on the path of life. "Is the way long?" she asked. And the guide said, "Yes, and the way is hard. And you will be old before you reach the end of it. But the end will be better than the beginning." But the young mother was happy, and she would not believe that anything could be better than these years. So she played with her children, and gathered flowers for them along the way. And the sun shone down on them, and life was good, and the young mother cried, "Nothing will ever be lovelier than this!"

Then came night, and storm; and the path was dark, and the children shook with fear and cold. But the mother drew close to them, and covered them with her mantle, and the children said, "We are not afraid, Mother, for you are near; and no harm can come to us."

And the mother said, "This is better than the brightness of day, for I have taught my children courage."

And the morning came, and there was a hill ahead, and the children climbed and grew weary, and the mother was weary. But at last she said to the children, "A little patience, and we are there."

So the children climbed, and when they reached the top, they said, "We could not have done this without you, Mother."

And that night the mother looked up at the stars, and said, "This is a better day than the last, for my children have learned fortitude in the face of hardship. Yesterday I gave them courage; today I gave them strength."

And the next day came strange clouds which darkened the earth—clouds of war and hate and evil, and the children groped and stumbled. The mother said, "Look up; lift your eyes to the light."

And the children looked, and saw above the clouds an Everlasting Light, and it guided them, and brought them beyond the darkness.

And that night the mother said, "This is the best day of all, for I have shown my children God."

And the days went on, and the weeks, and the months, and the years, and the mother grew aged, and she was little and bent. But the children were tall and strong, and walked with courage. And when the way was hard, they lifted her over the rough places. At last they came to a hill, and beyond the hill they could see a shining road

SOME FISHERMEN!!

This picture went up in the spinning room, in the case that is used to exhibit photos. And a note which read — "Just to let the WELLS boys know who is still Mr. Fisherman". The following day this note was added: "These fish were borrowed from Carl Wells and Loyd Mabry to have this picture taken." Bill Phillips and Maude James are the ones showing off their nice catch.

and golden gates flung wide. And the mother said, "I have reached the end of my journey. And now I know that the end is better than the beginning, for my children can walk alone, and their children after them."

And the children said, "You will always walk with us, Mother!"

And they stood and watched her walk through the golden gates, and the gates closed after her. And they said, "We cannot now see our mother, but she is with us still — she is a living presence." —Temple Bailer.

LEADER WHO FAILED
Lesson for May 2, 1954

It is said that at the time of the French Revolution there was one day a tremendous uproar in the streets of Paris, and an elderly gentleman who had not kept up with the news, inquired what it was. "It sounds like a revolt," said he. "Not a revolt, Sire," was the reply, "—a revolution." As revolt is a revolution that doesn't "click"; a revolution is a revolt that succeeds. Yet the success of a revolution is not to be measured by what it accomplishes there and then. Only as the years go on can any man assess a new movement, political or any other sort. What happened to Jeroboam's revolution, the one the prophet Ahijah had approved and authorized?

Success in the First Chapter

If Jeroboam had had any ghost writers and if they had written up the story of his political coup, they could have made it sound like a tremendous success. Jeroboam himself was young, able, and with immense political sagacity. He was a good organizer, and he was a popular man. As a labor leader under King Solomon he knew how to deal with people and as a political exile in Egypt for many years what he had not learned about the ins and outs of international politics was probably not worth learning. He had succeeded in drawing out of the original united Kingdom of Solomon ten out of the twelve tribes that composed it. Population, wealth, opportunity — everything was in his favor, plus the basic fact that a prophet of God was behind his movement to begin with. With God and the people on his side, how could Jeroboam lose?

Failure in the Last Chapter

When Jeroboam was some years older, a son of his lay very sick, and the king thought again of the prophet Ahijah who had once been his friend. Ahijah could surely tell him whether the child would live. But Jeroboam's queen, at Ahijah's door, met with no welcome. Quite the contrary; the old prophet cursed King Jeroboam and all his house. The revolution which had begun with the blessing of God upon it, ended by incurring the anger of God. The king who had begun with such overwhelming success ended as a failure. If the secession of the ten tribes had proved to be a failure, it was not that there was anything sinful in the idea itself, but that the revolution had been in Jeroboam's hands not a means of helping the people but of doing them harm.

"... Who Made Israel to Sin"

More than one writer in later times used the same standard formula for this Jeroboam. He is called "Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin." That is a terrible tag to hang on a man; that he is the cause of a nation's sin. But it was true of this man. What in particular had Jeroboam done, as King of Israel, to "make Israel to sin"? His great sins were two, but they were part of the same policy. It will be remembered that this was shortly after the time of Solomon, and the great temple which Solomon built was still the center of the religious life of all the twelve tribes. When Jeroboam engineered his revolution, he felt it to be a dangerous thing for the temple to be in the hands of the Kingdom of Judah up there in Jerusalem. So he organized two other religious centers, at convenient locations, Bethel in the south, Dan in the north; and in these newly appointed "shrine cities" he set up gold-plated calves and other animals as the gods of his people. In two ways among others, this was ruinous to right religion, and led to the decay of the nation.

God Is Not Mocked

First this involved the sin of making religion a department of the government. As King, Jeroboam attempted to dictate (and only too successfully) where and how his people should worship. The priests in his shrine cities were political appointees. Religion was subsidized by the state. But worse than that: Jeroboam tied the people down to a crude and cheap kind of religion. For the great invisible God of heaven and earth (see Solomon's prayer in I Kings 8) Jeroboam substituted gold-plated statues of bulls and he-goats. Debasement of religion, he debased his people. Cheap and bad religion will ruin a nation faster than fire or famine.

THE SECRET OF BEING POPULAR BASES LOADED!

Do you want other people to like you? Would you be overjoyed if you could find a magic formula that would insure your popularity among all your friends? Perhaps there is no such magic formula. But if you'd like a hint as to something pretty close to it, you'll find it in these two words: Be considerate. Thoughtlessness probably causes more sorrow and trouble than anything else in the world. It wrecks many friendships a day. It makes people resentful, angry and unhappy. And thoughtlessness is simply not being considerate of others. Some of us are so bound up in ourselves that we don't have time to care about anyone else's welfare. As a result, we wound their feelings, and soon we find ourselves disliked. The Golden Rule has been a matchless standard of conduct for many hundreds of years. It's still worth following, and in it you may find that secret of being popular — Exchange.

Take an ordinary party and remove the chairs and you have a reception. — Hawkeye Gazette Burlington, Ia.

THE TOP TEENS

Meet the Top Teens of Pacolet High School: Miss Shirley Banks and James Belk. They were chosen during Self-improvement week on the basis of sportsmanship, courteousness, study habits, friendliness and general personality. They are being congratulated by Mr. Blackwell, Principal.

PHILLIP LEE WILKINS

Handsome young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins. Phillip is 23 months old. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mulwee of Pacolet Mills and Mrs. Bessie Wilkins of Spartanburg, Route 2; and the great grandson of Mrs. Lula Paige.

COME ON TO THE PARTY!

David Smith tells Miss Foster to cease work as a party is in progress for her, by the second shift. Miss Joe Mae Foster, who for six years has been employed at Pacolet by Pacolet Mfg. Co., retired April 10th. Miss Foster has been employed on the third shift where she made a host of friends. She celebrated her 65th birthday Feb. 15. At six o'clock the second shift prepared a dinner. Between the warp and filling sections tables were laden with a buffet dinner. Miss Foster was presented a two piece Lady Baltimore luggage by Mr. David Smith, second hand of spinning, Mill No. 5. Mr. Walter Green, overseer, was present. Miss Foster, formerly of Greenville, says she loves the people here and has never worked with finer and better people. Approximately 65 enjoyed the occasion.

SO HE MADE MOTHERS

Read the life of almost any great man and you will find there the inspiration of a great mother. At the death of his mother, George Washington said, "I attribute all my success in life to the moral, intellectual, and physical education which I received from my mother."

We all remember the words of Lincoln: "All that I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother." Benjamin West, the great painter, said, "A kiss from my mother made me a painter."

Thomas Edison, the creator of thousands of modern miracles, laid his success at the feet of his mother. The teacher sent him home with a note which said that he was a dunce and could not learn. But Edison's mother did not lose faith. "My mother was the making of me," said the great inventor. "She was so true, so sure of me; and I felt that I had someone to live for, someone I must not disappoint."

General Grant wrote his mother every week. President Garfield took his mother to the platform at his inauguration, and after taking the oath of office, he turned and kissed her.

Mothers have played a vital part in the building of a better world. They have seldom been out on the center of the stage; they have been in the wings — but it is their inspiration, training, and encouragement that has made their sons great.

Perhaps God has given to mothers the special task of being inspirers of men, for someone has beautifully written: "God could not be everywhere, and so He made mothers."

Bill Rector Honored On Birthday

A birthday dinner honoring Mr. William D. Rector on the occasion of his 66th birthday was given at the family home on Gaffney Route 4 on March 28. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Salmon of Auston, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Ratha Wilson and nieces of Lexington, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henderson of Spartanburg; Mr. and Mrs. John Humphries of Rock Hill; Mrs. Maggie Cain of North Wilkesboro, N. C.; Mrs. T. E. Rector and family of Jonesville; Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Ivey of Union; Mrs. Rena Henderson and friends of Asheville, N. C.

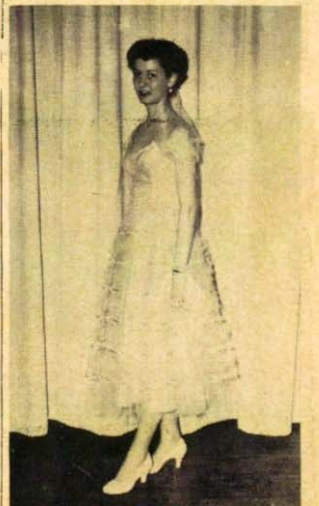

This was the first time in three years that the Rector family had all been together and with local friends and relatives there were 46 guests present.

It was a day Mr. Rector will long remember.

WAYNE McSWAIN

Looks as if this handsome youngster is saying, "How do ya like my bow tie?" Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McSwain and celebrated his 2nd birthday April 6, with a party at the Girls Club. About 20 of his little friends came to wish him a happy birthday, and went home happy but nice and sticky from eating cake, ice cream and candy, served by his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Felix Parker.

FRANKIE CORN

recently elected chapter sweetheart of the Pacolet FFA chapter at Pacolet Hi.

If I can put one touch of a rosy sunset into the life of any man or woman, I shall feel that I have worked with God. — Thoreau.

Life will be a lot happier for you if you use the advice you have been giving your friends.

GIRL SCOUT HOME NURSING CLASSES CLOSE

Troop No. 17, Girl Scouts of America, under the leadership of Mrs. Jessie Paige, have completed the Red Cross Course in Home Nursing. These young ladies probably comprise the youngest group to complete this course but they were such enthusiastic students and did their work so beautifully that each has been awarded the standard Red Cross Certificate in a ceremony at the Scout Room.

Mrs. Arrie Lanham, Executive Secretary of the Spartanburg Chapter of the A. R. C. was present and made the presentation speech and awarded the Scouts completing the work Red Cross certificates and pins.

TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

By Carolyn West Cochrane

Hers were the coaxing hands which helped me with my first trembling steps.

Hers were the comforting arms which soothed me when all the world went wrong.

Hers were the lips from which poured forth the words of wisdom which guided me during my treacherous journey over fool's hill, keeping me from falling prey to the many hard-dealt blows of life.

No other eyes could convey that look of utter disappointment when so miserably I fell short of her dreams, yet, in that look, there was also the light of patience and love, for no matter how often I wandered far, no earthly thing could extinguish the flame of Mother Love which burned in her heart, kindled there by the Heavenly Father above.

INDUSTRY SUPPORT

Industry stepped up its financial support of medical schools this year. The National Fund for Medical Education reports that its fund raising committee received $1,368,000 or 74 per cent more than in the previous year. The number of contributing companies rose from 339 to 994.

"People who are living beyond their income should begin acting their wage."

Montgomery Memorial

Our church wishes to pin a flower on one of its staunchest members. This is a case of presenting the flower while the recipient can enjoy it.

JOHN LOVING

John Loving has been a member of the Methodist Church all his life. He was a steward in the church for 24 years.

He has been our church caretaker for 23 years, and has always been the cheerful willing person to whom we turned when putting on special programs in the church.

Several nights each week John is on hand to have the church doors open for meetings and is the last one there to turn out the lights and bid the members good-night.

For thirty years John has been interested in the boys of our community. He has been Scoutmaster or Assistant Scoutmaster for 30 years and is at present Assistant Scoutmaster of the Church Group.

John himself was a Boy Scout in 1915 when the first troop was organized under the leadership of Mr. Bailey who was the Y. M. C. A. director at that time.

John is interested in all phases of community life. He has taken various Red Cross courses, has taught first aid and has been part of a team for teaching first aid.

We need more citizens like John Loving, and we feel in the church that far beyond the small salary the church pays him, John is going the second mile in his service to his church.

At their regular meeting on April 12th, the W. S. C. S. entertained members of the Cowpens Society.

After an interesting program and introduction of guests the group opened "Treasure Chests" which they had been keeping for some time and putting the odd change into. The money obtained from the chests goes to the 28 mission projects and is a special for the Society.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Carey Petty, Marion Harrold, Sara White, Marie Thompson, and Mildred Thompson.

Mrs. I. W. White and Mrs. Wilson Lee were hostesses for an Easter egg hunt for their Sunday School groups on April 15th.

The party was held at the White home and 38 children came, bringing their colored eggs and joining in the fun.

Thanks

Mr. Glenn Rogers wishes to thank the Community Chest, and all of his friends and neighbors who were so kind to him and his family during his long illness. Glenn is happy to be at work again and in improving health.

Mr. Caleb Lee wants to say

Pacolet Mills Baptist Church

My purpose in writing a brief note this month is to remind you that Sunday, May 9, is Mother's Day. The sentiments attached to this day have endeared themselves to me in remembrance of my mother.

Someone before me has written the following lines about their mother, but they fit my own mother so very much that I'd like to write them about her.

It was my mother who led my first toddling steps. She helped me when I fell, and encouraged me to step bravely forward into a shifting, swaying world.

She dried my tears, kissed away my little hurts, calmed my fears, and comforted me in all my sorrows.

She taught me the meaning of kindness, and she showed me how love could transform lives of men and women.

Above all, she taught me of God and his love for us. She showed me the loveliness of a face lifted toward Him. She led me to see how wonderful is the radiance of great religious faith by which one's way may be lighted. She taught me to pray, and many times I could not have gone on without this reliance on God.

Then, too, she taught me to make my way regularly to God's house and to worship with His people.

These things I shall never forget, and I think the greatest tribute I can pay her is to be found with her Sunday in church. Wouldn't it be wonderful if the families of this community sat with mother in her church on her day?

Let's all go to church with Mother this Sunday and every Sunday.

—James W. Crocker.

MISS MATHIS HONOREE AT SHOWER

Miss Ila Jean Mathis, bride-elect of this week, was honored Saturday night with a miscellaneous shower given at the Girls' Club at Pacolet Mills.

Spring flowers and ivy were used throughout the reception room.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a floral arrangement of yellow and green. White candles were placed on either side of the table.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Fred Keim and Mrs. Boyd Brown of Rhodhiss, N. C., Mrs. J. L. Glass and daughter, Margerie, of Fingerville, Mrs. Walter Mathis and daughter, Helen, of Gaffney.

About 50 guests were present. The honoree wore a beige printed silk dress with blue duster. She was presented a corsage of red carnations.

Mrs. Robert Pierce, Mrs. Carl Wells and Mrs. Amos Glass served punch, sandwiches, nuts and cookies.

Mrs. Eddie Wells directed games and contests.

Miss Mathis was married Friday, March 19.

Thanks to all the good friends who remembered him so kindly with flowers, cards and visits during his recent stay at the hospital.

Caleb had an eye operation and says that later he must have the other eye operated. He is recovering nicely.

Mr. Jim Kimery says a word of Thanks to all of the good people who have been so kind with cards, lowers, visits and prayers during his recent illness. At this writing 'im is still not able to do his regular work and we wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Mittie Fleming also says thanks.

THE McALHANYs

Mrs. Howard J. McAlhany, and her three daughters, Nancy Catherine, age 4; Marianne, age 2; Sara Elizabeth, age 10 mo. of Memphis, Tenn., are the daughter, and granddaughters of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Pettus. Sara Elizabeth recently spent a week with her grandparents in Pacolet Mills, while her parents were on a business trip to Washington and New York City.

Local Items

Mr. and Mrs. Manning Patterson have moved to Hemingway, S. C. Manning is going into business for himself. He has been connected with the Recheck Dept. for several months and before that time was in the Standards Dept.

John Frederick McGaha is now attending Newberry College at Newberry.

Mrs. Dallas Manis is at home on a visit. Her husband A/2c Dallas Manis is stationed at Maxwell A. F. B. in Alabama.

And Olin Cook has sent his mother, Mrs. Blanch Arnold, another China dinner set. Now we are just waiting for an invitation to dinner.

Mon Teaster, when asked what he knew that was news, said, "All I know is that everyone's eating poke salad," and someone told him all the trouble we are having around here came from eating all that poke salad.

Jimmy Ardis was home for the weekend. Jimmy has done fine in his new work. He is not yet 21 years of age and has his own office with the International Business Machine Co., where he went to work when he finished school.

Mr. Will Holmes, who has recently retired is now doing photographic work at his home. He has very kindly made several pictures for us and his work is, as usual, of top quality. Many of our pictures of the last 35 years were made by Mr. Holmes and we look to him for some of our oldtimes photographs.

IN ANOTHER'S SHOES

In the earliest days of our country, there was a custom among the Sioux Indians that we might remember today.

Before he left his own tribe to travel in the domain of another, a Sioux on the night before his departure would offer this prayer, "Great Spirit, help me never to judge another man until I have walked two weeks in his moccasins."

Some 65 percent of American families own automobiles.

HOME OF MR. AND MRS. FRED MARTIN

We visited the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin at Cowpens and have never seen a happier home or a more contented couple.

When Mr. Fred and Miss Laura retired they bought a lot adjoining the Woodrow and Bernice Potter home in Cowpens, but when it came time to think of building, the two families got together and decided to remodel the Potter home, add the Martin home to it and make a two family home. They worked for a long time on plans until they had just what they all considered necessary, then called in an architect who worked from their own plans.

The central part of the house is two stories and the second floor with its own bath contains the childrens' rooms.

We entered at the front directly into a large airy living room which is the Potter's living room. A door at the left enters into the Martin living room and the rest of their suite, which consists of living room, bedroom, bath and modern kitchen and a screened back porch which opens on the kitchen and the small central hall. The entire house is done in white knotty pine and gives a sunny bright appearance. Even the cabinets in the kitchen are made of the pine with plastic tops.

The bedroom has two large closets with sliding panel doors. The living room is quite large with a lovely fireplace that was copied from a Ladies Home Journal cover. They have central oil heating and being a part of the Potter home the families visit back and forth but each has their own housekeeping arrangements.

In looking over the home we asked to see Bernice's home too, and it was delightful. A room that had been used as a dining room is now a small music room off the living room and a long narrow hall like room used to be her kitchen but is now a utility room, with cabinets, washer sink and all left as it was but making a lovely addition to the home. Then they decided they needed a new kitchen, so at the end of this room is one of the loveliest kitchens I have seen. It too, is finished with knotty pine. It is a large room, with maple furniture and the end wall and front side (there are three exposed sides) are mostly casement windows with calico draw curtains in a deep red with a small figure, that are lovely. A red fireplace in the far end, a breakfast set, Dutch cupboards, books and even a desk, makes us know this is probably the most lived-in part of the house. Bernice has many pieces of antique china, brass and silver. She seems to haunt antique shops and sales and has some lovely pieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin seem entirely happy and contented and Mr. Fred is planning on a garden and landscaping, and Miss Laura is a real grandmother, and is happy having the children with her so much of the time.

Servicemen

Bobby McGaha, who is now stationed at Shaw A. F. B. is a frequent home visitor.

We are sorry to learn that Edmund Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Turner, was seriously burned in an accident aboard his ship in April. The last reports we have say he is doing nicely. He had first and second degree burns that covered a largt part of his body, and he is in the hospital but we haven't learned just what caused the accident. Edmund's address is U. S. S. Sperry (A.S.-12). If some of our boys are in San Diego, a visit from them would be very welcome to Edmond.

A nice card from John W. Jett, from his address we assume that John is now in Korea.

Pvt. James E. Millwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Millwood Sr., is now in the service and is stationed at Ft. Jackson.

Jack Wells, who is serving with the Air Force in Germany, is now a Staff Sergeant.

Gm-2 Fred Green, Jr., who is serving on the Sanbourne Troop Transport will be out of the service in July. Fred Jr. married Miss Betty Brooks of Cowpens, last December.

Roy Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Wells, who is stationed with the Air Force at Francis Warren A. F. B., Cheyenne, Wyoming, has been home on 18-day leave. He returned to his base on April 15.

Also home for Easter vacation were Gerald Holmes, who is stationed at Jacksonville at present; Gene Campbell, Norfolk.

A lovely Easter card from Roger Freeman (U. S. S. Remy) says with an orchid decoration: "You have been like a mother to me" and that sentiment we cherish very much.

Joseph Gist (U. S. S. Olmstead) has been home on a 15 day leave. Incidentally he told us he wasn't getting the "Neigh" and of course that is because he had a change of address without notifying us. We are very anxious that all of our boys in the service get the home paper, so please see that we have the correct addresses.

Earl Fowler, who has been with the merchant Marines since 1942, and lately has been civilian worker under civil service on the U. S. S. Gen. R. E. Callan, is home on indefinite leave.

Earl has been working on an army passenger ship and has a most interesting experience. Besides seeing so many important ports, his ship has been transporting military personnel, bringing over G. I. war brides and their children and various duties of like nature.

HOME OF BILL AND LOTTIE BURGESS

Bill and Lottie Burgess have a lovely new home on the Cowpens road. Bill sawed all the lumber for the house himself and helped a lot with the building. They lived in a trailer on the lot for three years, and Bill had a garage where he does work for the public in his spare time. Bill works in the clothroom and Lottie at Spin, No. 3.

The house has four rooms and bath and central hall, with a floor furnace which heats the entire house.

Bill and Lottie have two acres, and plan landscaping, a garden and they also have a flock of chickens. With their work and Bill's garage this is a very busy little family, and one we are proud to have in our commuaity.

PVT. JOHN WILLIAM BROWN
Son of Mary Brown, now with the Army in Germany.

PVT. CHARLES STEADINGS
Son of Mrs. Phoner Steadings of Pacolet Mills, has returned to his post in Korea after a rest period spent in Kobe, Japan. While in Japan he met Liston Jones and Billy Thompson. Charles has been overseas since June, 1953.

HOW DOLLAR GOES

Taking the nationwide average in manufacturing industry, for every dollar received from the sales of its product a firm will spend 49 cents for wages, salaries and other employee benefits; nine cents for taxes; six cents for repairs, replacements, etc., three cents for research and promotion — keeping four cents out of each dollar as profit.
