Girl Scout Troop Promotes Safety

From time to time there have been restrictions and rules made to safe-guard the people who live and work here. Rules such as: forbidding any swimming in the river, using air rifles, pea shooters etc. Various posters are placed around to make us SAFETY CONCIIOUS.

The safety Council is working at this job continuously. It is our job to aid them in every way possible. Have you noticed broken bottles and other kind of glass about the grounds? The above picture shows several thousand pieces of glass which have been picked up by the Girl Scouts.

Must we continue to have accidents caused by this carelessness?

A family as large as that of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Winstead is seldom seen these days. This proud couple is rearing a brood of 11 children, of which 8 are boys and 3 are girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Winstead were married in 1930, and their first child, a son, William, was born in 1931. Eugene arrived in 1933, James Paul, in '34, Betty in '36, David in '39, Dorothy in 1941, John in '43, Bobby in '45, Charles in '46, and twins Roger Dale and Linda Gail, born in 49, complete the family. Black eyes are characteristic in the family group.

Mrs. Winstead's method of training such a big family is a wise one. She states that all the children are handy helpers around the house. Different tasks are assigned to each one, both boys and girls are trained to do the same kind of work, and boys as well as girls can wash dishes, clean house and do any kind of house-work.

All the children live at home on Fleming St. except William who is serving in the Army. Eugene is now employed in the cloth room, and the other members of the family are school and pre-school age.

Mr. Winstead is slasher tender in Weave No. 3, and Mrs. Winstead is a spare hand in the card room.

Scouts in the Y. M. C. A. After several active games such as Squirrel in a tree, Hang on, Cranes & Crows, etc., the group was divided into eight small groups and each one put on a stunt. Oras Brown, who is proving quite a soloist, entertained the group with several numbers. Mr. Frank Chase, field director for Spartanburg district, told a story and talked to the group about the Cherokee Indians. Afterwards, refreshments consisting of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies and cold drinks were served to 64.

For Dad

In our childhood, Dad, you were a mystery man. Your day was long, and you left so early in the morning. Your tired footsteps passed our bedroom door when we were sound asleep. Your thoughts and plans made our childhood a paradise, a memory no pain or sorrow can erase. You have grown older; your shoulders stoop a little; your hair is greying at the temples; but your buoyant spirit remains unchanged.

You provided for all our whims during childhood years. You understood our problems when all the world seemed to turn against us. To us you were omnipotent, for there wasn't a worry you could not set aright. Time has not dulled that understanding, for it is still just as vibrant and strong as in the yesteryears. Sometimes your discipline seemed severe, but time has proven your wisdom. Those early lessons we learned at your knee have helped to solve the unrelenting trials of life.

Now we have children of our own. We know and understand how our thoughtless remarks and actions must have hurt you. Will you forgive us, Dad? We loved you then as now, but somehow the spirit and freedom of youth gives the impression that all things in life come easy. We realize how your efforts have made our pathway easier, just as you had hoped. We are proud of the family heritage you have given us, and it will always be an inspiration to live and work for the finer things of life. —(Used by permission.)

Mrs. Henpecked: "I suppose you've been to see a sick friend—holding his hand all evening."

Mr. Henpecked (sadly): "If I'd been holding his hand, I'd have made some money."

Birthday greetings are in order for this cute little miss. She is Jeane Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson, and celebrated her 5th birthday May 13

Be Honest With Yourself Always

If you were the boss, would you hire yourself or a man who works like you do?

Check up on your job—has your work for the past month made a profitable investment for your firm?

Are you an asset or a liability? Suppose you had to pay the salary; would you give yourself a raise or a cut on the basis of your present work?

Be honest now—if you were the boss, would you keep a man like yourself on the payroll?

When Daddy Was A Boy

By P. F. FREEMAN

My Daddy is a hardy man, an' I've often heard him say, He used to have more chores to do than youngsters have today. He seems to love to talk an' tell of things he did— Till now he's really made me think I'M a sort of lucky kid.

He had to wake up early to feed and milk a cow, And after he had breakfast, would have to weed and plow He would have to feed the horses, and keep the stables clean— Had to carry pails of swill to keep pigs from being lean.

He always had to haul the wood and cut it for the stove; Ne'er had the time like others did to frolic and to rove. When winter time would come with its silvery sleet and snow, For all the meat and groceries, to town would have to go.

I've often thought as I listened (for my Dad is no fool), How he really found the time to ever go to school. He probably thought that his work was just a bit of fun, But I'll bet 'twas mighty often he wish'd his toil was done.

Jimmie came into the school-room one morning plainly excited. "Yes, Jimmie, what it it?" asked the teacher.

"I don't want to scare you," said Jimmie, hesitatingly, "but my dad said if I didn't get better grades, someone is due for a licking."

Customer: "It's tough to pay 80c a pound for steak." Butcher: "But it's tougher when you pay only 40c."

Fred Allen says that television is the kind of radio that lets the people at home see what the people in the studio are not laughing at.

M/Sgt. and Mrs. Julian W. Slusarizyk have announced the birth of a son, Steven Frank, March 26th in Nurnberg, Germany. They returned from Korea 2 years ago and was then sent to Germany. Sgt. Slusarizyk is from Utica, N. Y. Mrs. Slusarizyk is the former Ponise Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook. Ponise talked to her mother from Germany, Mother's Day.

Homes Of Pacolet Mills Folks

This is the modern and comfortable home of Mr. Woodrow McAbee and family in the El Bethel community. Mr. McAbee is employed in the cloth room at Pacolet Mills.

MISS DOROTHY GREENE ENTERTAINS

One of the loveliest parties of the year, was the formal given the members of the Wesleyan Service Guild, their husbands and friends at the Girls Club, Thursday evening, May 18th, by Miss Dorothy Greene, the retiring president. A profusion of garden flowers was used in the reception room, which made a lovely setting for the party. Interesting games and contests kept the guests entertained during the evening. Mrs. J. T. Gregory and James Littlejohn won prizes for skits.

Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, mints, nuts, cake and punch was served to 49 guests.

FROZEN FOOD DEMONSTRATION

The International Harvester Co. has a fine new refrigerator now on the market. During the war on account of scarcity of materials they concentrated on farm machinery and war materials but now they have brought out a new model refrigerator and deep freeze units.

Through the efforts of Miss Fuller, Mrs. Myron Littrell, a personal friend, will give a demonstration in freezing foods, desserts, etc., at the Methodist Church on June 19th at 7 p.m.

Everyone is invited and men as well as women will be interested in this demonstration.

How To Make Delinquents

William J. Harper has worked out the following recipe as a guide to fathers. He does not guarantee the results but has noted a high rate of success from those who work according to his formula:

1. Don't give your son any religious or spiritual training. Just take care of his body needs.

2. In his presence don't be respectful of womanhood or of law and government. Belittle "dames" and the courts, the police, public officials, the school the church and business. "It's all a racket!"

3. Don't have any constructive discipline, and disagree with your wife in his presence, so he can learn on whom to depend when he wants his way.

4. Don't consider his educational and emotional development a parental responsibility. What are schools for?

5. Don't let him discuss his plans, problems, or pleasures with you. Just be too busy, so he won't develop affection or security or trust in you.

6. Don't open your home to his companions, they will muss up the place. And don't be concerned where he spends his free time. Just trust him.

7. Don't give him an allowance because he might learn how to save or spend. Don't ask him to give to community needs or services. Just "dig-down" yourself. That's the easiest way.

8. Don't be calm and poised. Be shocked and explode when he tells you he has done something wrong. Then he won't confide in you the next time.

9. Don't make a pal of him. Go alone on your sports and entertainment. He would only be in the way.

10. If you forget all the above, just remember this one: Be a poor example yourself. You know, "Do as I say, it's no one's business what I do."

It's Really Not Necessary To Dread a Visit To The Dentist

Do you dread a visit to the dentist? Lots of people do, but don't blame the dentist. In the majority of cases, when dental treatment is unpleasant and painful it is because YOU neglected to see your dentist in time. Then, when you finally got up your courage or couldn't stand the pain any longer and gave your dentist a chance to help you things were pretty disagreeable for you both.

You don't need to dread a visit to the dentist if you go to see him regularly. Why not give yourself a break, and your next dental appointment may even be a pleasure. Won't you be surprised when he says, "A couple of small cavities—that's all" or, "I guess a cleaning will cover it" instead of "Looks like trouble here," or "How long has this been bothering you?"

Good dental care is as simple as this. There are three factors essential to sound teeth—(1) dental cleanliness, (2) tooth-building foods, (3) regular visits to the dentist.

DENTAL CLEANLINESS

Use a medium toothbrush with tufts well separated, but don't use it forever. When it gets old and the bristles are limp throw it out and get a new one. Any of the familiar brands of toothpastes and powders are approved by the dental profession generally. If you have a condition which requires a special type of brush or dentifrice your dentist will tell you what he thinks you should use.

To clean the teeth brush up and down with a slight twisting motion, gently but thoroughly, on the inside, outside, and grinding surfaces. Use dental floss to get into the spaces not reached by the brush, being careful not to cut the gums.

Rinse your toothbrush thoroughly after each use and place it where it is exposed to the air so that it will dry quickly.

TOOTH-BUILDING FOODS

The process of tooth-building is constant. Research shows that certain dietary deficiencies can cause tooth decay, pyorrhea, and other dental troubles. Your teeth, like the rest of your body, are affected by what you eat. A well balanced diet should include a variety of foods with special emphasis on milk in any form, and carrots, turnips, green leafy vegetables, tomatoes, oranges, and grapefruit.

REGULAR VISITS TO THE DENTIST

Regular dental checks are a "must." Two visits a year should keep things pretty well under control unless your dentist tells you to see him more often. By making these regular visits decay is checked before it has a chance to go deep into the tooth—this means your teeth will last longer, cause less trouble, and you'll save money in the long run.

If you have children in the family take them to the dentist at an early age, as soon as they have their first teeth. This will give the youngsters a chance to become acquainted with the dentist before dental care is actually necessary and will give him an opportunity to detect any irregularities in tooth development that need attention.

Making Allowances

Making allowances for other people is one of the hardest tasks in social relationships that we know of. It seems to lie at the bottom of our difficulties in getting along with others who do not think as we do.

Young married couples usually require at least 3 years before they begin to think enough alike to be able to make allowances for each other's shortcomings after the first blush of romance has faded.

Among adults living in close proximity even more adjustments are necessary than between those who share the common aims and problems of marriage. Experience of age always vies with the modern, different ways of doing things. Many times the old way is best; sometimes the newer way. How can the two be reconciled?

Only by making allowances. Youth must remember that its elders actually have had more experience. But age usually forgets that youth can only learn from its own experience.

When the early training or discipline has been entirely different, due to learning varying professions or not having learned any, thinking alike becomes almost impossible. But he who has been given the insight of religious self-discipline must make the greatest show of tolerance, never forgetting that others are acting only in accordance with their own beliefs.

It has often been said that it takes two to start a fight, but we would like to add, it takes only one to restore the peace.

BE GLAD

Laugh a little now and then,
It brightens life a lot;
You can see the brighter side
Just as well as not.
Don't go mournfully around,
Gloomy and forlorn;
Try to make your fellow men
Glad that you were born.

Pacolet Mills Baptist Church

At this writing we are in the midst of our Revival Meeting. Dr. R. C. Campbell is doing the preaching and is doing it wonderfully well. For several years Dr. Campbell was State Mission Secretary of Texas with headquarters at Dallas. Then for some years he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C. and more recently was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Little Rock, Arkansas, which has 3,600 members. At present he is pastor emeritus of this church but is living at Shelby, N. C. and is engaged in evangelistic work.

We appreciate very much the fine cooperation that Pastor Gregory and many of his members have shown in our meeting. Also we have had members of Brown's Chapel and the other churches with us, for which we are thankful.

We are glad that many of the men of our community are showing much concern about the churches. And may your tribe increase. It is such a responsible thing to be the head of a home. As a rule boys walk in the footsteps of their fathers, and it certainly is important that our steps lead in the right direction. Most of the boys in our penal institutions are there because they did not have the right example at home; there are of course some exceptions.

I know a young man whose last words as he was being led to the electric chair were: "I am here because my father took no religious interest in me whatsoever."

Men, it is a duty you owe yourself, your children, your community, your nation and your God; that you set an upright example before your family and community and that you lead the members of your household to the House of God each Sunday.

Our church observed Mother's Day the second Sunday of May. The floral decoration of white and red was very beautiful. Our offering for the Baptist Hospital in Columbia was seventeen dollars above our goal.

Edgar Morgan, one of our faithful members passed into the "great beyond" a few days ago. The first Sunday after his passing many remarked about missing him at church. Many others will be missed when they die, but not at church.

Vacation Bible School will begin June 5 at 10 a. m.

The Grouchers

Some folks are young at sixty,
And others are old at ten,
Some go to sleep at twenty,
Never to waken again.
Some folks work for a living,
Others n'er work at all;
Some folks are happy and cheerful,
Others grouch when you call.
Some say it takes all kinds
To make up this world of light;
Some help things to go smoothly,
Whether it be day or night.
This may sound wise to you, sir,
To me it does not sound true;
I have no place for the grouchers,
No patience with them, have you?

—Ernest O. Sellers.

Perpetual Mention

It is not generally known, but it was Millard Gillmore, 13th President of the United States, who gave Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the recording telegraph, his earliest and most potent support. In gratitude, Morse named the two Morse code characters after Fillmore's children, Dorothy (Dot) and Dashiell (Dash).

Student Organization Officers

Pictured above are the old and new officers of the Pacolet High School Student Participation Organization. Newly elected vice-president is Floyd Shealy at the right. Incoming secretary-treasurer Junior Nation is second from right, and the retiring secretary-treasurer, Carolyn Seay, third from right. Retiring president, Bruce Parrish, is third from the left and new president, Rebecca Brown, second from left. Alton Gwinn, who was vice-president, is shown on the extreme left.

One of the most significant things that has occurred at Pacolet High School during my three years association with it, I believe, has been the formation of an over-all student organization which is called the Pacolet High School Student Participation Organization. The purpose given in the preamble to its constitution is "to promote better co-operation among the faculty and students, to provide training in citizenship, to encourage student participation in all school activities and to make this a better school." Many people over a period of many months have worked with the idea and it was supported by our school newspaper.

A provisional council was set up composed of leaders of the various existing student organizations and others who had had opportunity to acquire some knowledge of similar organizations in other schools. They worked out a proposed constitution which was duly adopted by the student body. Serving at the head of this provisional council and taking the lead in setting up the full organization for next year were the following three seniors: President—Bruce Parrish Vice-Pres.—Alton Gwinn Sect'y-Treas.—Carolyn Seay.

Taking over from them for the ensuing year will be the following rising seniors:

Pres.—Rebecca Brown
Vice-Pres.—Floyd Shealy
Sect'y—Treas.—Junior Nation
Organized under the constitution and forming a part of the over-all organization are the classes and clubs listed below with their officers for the following year listed insofar as they are complete to date.

Senior class; Pres. Hilda McCravay, Vice-Pres. Johnnie Ray Shephard, Sect'y-Treas. Edith Martin.

Freshman Class; Pres. Gene Reeves, Vice-Pres. Orilee Alsbrook Sect'y-Treas. Shirley Minton.

Beta Club; Pres. Donald Kirby Vice-Pres. Jim Parrish, Sect'y Bob Rice, Treas. Martha Anne Reeves.

Pacolet Baseball Teams In Action

The Pacolet Trojans got off to a bad start this ball season, but at this writing seems to have snapped out of the slump and have climbed to 2nd place in the league.

Riverdale holds first place, having never lost a game.

One of the players told us that credit for lifting the league to 2nd place is due to Manager Red Ellison.

Lynn McMakin had the misfortune to get a broken bone in his left hand. He was sliding into base and caught his hand in the umpire's clothing, bending back his little finger and cracking the bone. His hand will have to be in a cast for six weeks so he will be unable to play ball during this time and they need him badly.

Pee Wee Lambert and Ken Propst, who have been playing for Wofford are home now and will play with the Trojans. They have been students at Wofford but came to Pacolet Mills as soon as the second term was over. Their first game with Pacolet was played on May 16th.

The Black Trojans have made an enviable record thus far in the season, winning top place in the six team league, consisting of Gaffney, Haynes Shop, Drayton, Inman, Pacolet Mills and Coverts.

The manager is Willie George Bailey, Captain, Sam Shippey, Pitchers, Robert Johnson, Jake Crosby, Irish Porter and Clarence Norris. The other members of the team are: Big Dave Bailey, Wallace Humphries, Walt Sanders, Johnny Rice, Robert Hardy, Clarence Hardy, Thomas Reid and Richard McBeth.

The American Legion Soft Ball team played the Spartanburg Service Club, team on May 8th, winning the game with a score of 8 - 3.

The Man In The Glass

When you get what you want in your struggle for self, and the world makes you king for a day, just go to a mirror and look at yourself, and see what that man has to say. For it isn't your father or mother or wife who judgment upon you must pass, the fellow whose verdict counts most in your life is the one staring back from the glass.

Some people may think you a straight-shooting chum and call you a wonderful guy; but the man in the glass says you're only a bum if you can't look him straight in the eye. He's the fellow to please—never mind all the rest-- for he's with you clear up to the end; and you've passed your test if the man in the glass is your friend.

You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years, and get pats on the back as you pass; but your final reward will be heartaches and tears, if you've cheated the man in the glass.

Are You Afraid Of Competition?

In my younger days I was afraid of my competitor and thought he was an enemy.

Now I know he is one of the best friends I have.

My competitor does more for me than my friend will do.

My friend is too polite to tell me what I ought to know.

My competitor makes me efficient, diligent and attentive.

He makes me work and search for new ways to improve my service.

My competitor would take my business away from me if he could.

This keeps me constantly alert to protect what I have.

If I had no competitor, I would become lazy, incompetent and independent.

I need discipline.

I like my competitors; they have been so good to me.

A traveler one night found himself obliged to remain in a small town because of a landslide on the railroad, caused by heavy rain which was still falling. The traveler turned to the waitress with: "This certainly looks like the flood."

"The what?"

"The flood. You've read about the flood, and the ark landing on Mt. Ararat, surely?"

"Mister," she replied, "I haven't seen a paper in three days."

Mrs. Brown: "Whenever I'm in the dumps, I get myself a new hat."

Mrs. Jones: "I was wondering where you get them."

Purely Personal

The family of Mrs. R. M. Teaster wishes to thank their many friends for the expressions of kindness during the illness of Mrs. Teaster.

The Scissors Grinder

The doorbell rang, and as I answered, I found an elderly, shabbily dressed man supported by crutches standing on the step. He had no overcoat, and a cold north wind was blowing, yet the man smiled as he asked if he had any knives or scissors which needed sharpening.

There always were dull knives about the house, so I rounded up a few knives and a pair of scissors, and directed the man to the garage, where he would be out of the cold wind. I arranged a seat for him, and asked if he wished something on which to fasten his grinder.

He answered, "No, you see I use my crutch for that purpose." and added with a smile, "you know I'm luckier than most scissors grinders, for they do not have a crutch to use, and it handicaps them in using their grinder."

There was no grumbling, no complaining in this man, only the smile and the use of a crutch as an aid in his adventure in living. I returned to the house, and found more knives and scissors, and took them to him. And I learned a lesson in living from the lips of a master.

Thanks To Friends

Bobbie Wilkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spide Wilkins, wishes to express his thanks to his many friends for remembering him in so many ways during his recent attack of rheumatic fever.

Better be safe than sorry—Be careful and avoid accidents.

Do You Know About Accidents?

That accidents that are not reported immediately will be contested before being accepted as mill accidents. Therefore if you are accidentally injured in the mill, no matter how small the accident is, please report to your overseer or second hand at once. This is for your protection.

That if the worker is injured or is taken ill in the mill and is not able to walk out under his own power, you should let him lie and call the nurse or doctor. Great injury may result in moving an injured person before he has received first aid treatment by a doctor or nurse.

A broken arm may be detected by the fact that it hurts badly, and any effort to move it increases the pain. The patient may be able to move the hand or bend the elbow, but will be unable to raise the arm. The patient should not be moved before a splint is applied, and so should he be let lie until the nurse or doctor sees him and applies a splint before he is moved. This applies not only to accidents that occur in the mill, but to accidents in the home or on the highway. Please don't drag the patient into a car and start out hunting the doctor. You may cause a permanent injury by doing so.

A simple fracture is one where the skin is not broken, while a compound fracture means that one end of the bone or bones protrude through the skin. A compound fracture is much more serious than a simple fracture because the bone and the marrow and tissue and muscles are exposed to infection by coming through the skin, clothing and perhaps into the dirt. Treat such patients for shock and splint them where they lie, but better still, get a doctor, nurse, or ambulance at once. Be sure to keep them warm, and give stimulants if possible.

Eye injuries should be reported immediately. Recently we had a man who said he got something in his eye on Saturday. It was Tuesday before he reported to the nurse, and was advised to see the doctor at once but it was Wednesday before he finally saw the doctor. The eye is too important to do such foolish things.

The overseers and second hands try in every way to make your work safe, and we find that most mill accidents are caused by carelessness on the part of the worker. Sometimes they pay dearly for that carelessness. If you see a defective machine, a slippery spot on the floor, or anything else that in your opinion constitutes a safety hazard, please report it at once.

It takes all of us working all the time to keep down mill accidents, and protect the lives and safety of the workers.

Montgomery Memorial Methodist Church

The activities of the Montgomery Memorial Methodist Church the past month have given evidence that the work of the Church is going forward in a very fine way. The progress shown by the achievements is most encouraging to all concerned.

Revival Services were held in the church during the week of May 1st to 7th with the Pastor bringing the messages. The attendance at all of the services was good and the visible results were most gratifying. New decisions and resolves were made which have already lifted the moral conditions of our beloved community.

On Sunday May 7th at the morning service Student Nurse Day was observed with Mrs. Hazel Gallman taking part on the program and representing the nurses. We had the joy of having Mr. Sam Moyer, Prof. of music at Wofford College and a group of nurses of the Glee Club at General Hospital with us. These contributed much to the service by rendering several musical numbers. The Church was filled for the service and tribute was paid to Miss Belle Fuller for the unusual contribution she has made to the life of our community as a very efficient and faithful nurse. The services were brought to a close with a special message by the pastor on the subject of "Service, The Pathway of Greatness."

The school will begin on June 5th and will continue for two weeks with classes being held each day from 9 a. m. until 11 a. m. All children between the ages of 4 years and 15 years are urged to attend.

Delegates from our Church attended the District Conference on Friday, May 12th. The Conference was held at Gravely Memorial Methodist Church at the Southern Shops. The report of Montgomery Memorial Church as given to the Conference by the Pastor revealed splendid progress and unusual achievement in both the financial and spiritual work of the Church.

Many of our members along with the Pastor have enjoyed the privilege of attending the series of Revival Services recently held at the Pacolet Mills Baptist Church with Dr. R. C. Campbell of Shelby, N. C. as the visiting Minister. We feel that our community has been lifted higher in the matter of moral and spiritual living by the labors of those of our sister Church.

Pacolet Mills community is blessed with good churches and for this blessing each of us ought to lend our hearty support to them so they can be even more useful in sending out into the community a stream of good influence and worthy service to bless and enrich the lives of you, your home, your school, your Church and your community.

Spend next Sunday and all other Sundays in some Church and you will be able to make a greater contribution to the well being of our community life.

J. T. Gregory, Pastor.

OLDEST MOTHER IS HONORED

The oldest mother attending the Wesleyan Service Guild Mother and Daughter Banquet was Mrs. J. Bert Hendley. She was singled out for the very special position of honor as pictured above.
